“ I hadn't seen peanut in decades, but he has ALWAYS been a great guy to anyone he's met. We met when I was a lost soul and hanging out around Little Flower lane in Marrero. Peanut helped me when we were checking my slat traps off Baptiste Collette in Venice, my boat, and I was washed under a barge by a platform supply boat, Peanuts long legs was able to step up on the barge, while I was washed under the barge, Thankfully I had Peanut there to get the big boat to take his engines out of gear, so I was able to swim out. Peanut was always a faithful friend to anyone he befriended. Mr. Pat and Miss Anita raised all their kids to be great kids. I remember when Layton took over operating the company, another great man, and Joslyn was quite a looker. I didn't know, when I met Pat and the family, that Pat and my dad were friends working on different boats in the oil fields. I became a boat captain myself, and I kept getting larger and larger licenses. Last I remember, Peanut told me Shell laid off the Mrs Anita, the boat Pat had built for them. I didn't know Peanut was living in Erath. I had been in Kaplin, then moved to Erath, I was always on the boat working and would have loved to run across Peanut, bring back old times. I'm no longer in the area, I moved to high land to get away from the hurricanes. I was praying for a kid and for some reason Peanut came to mind, so I searched him and discovered he had passed years ago. I wish we had stayed in contact with each other instead of working all the time. But you would never find a better family than the Demolls, and every one of their kids were a fantastic example. Sadly missed, Captain Crip
