“ Sweet Kaitlin now rests; but not for long. Jesus told his disciples that one day "all" in the grave would hear his voice and come out. (John 5:28, 29; 11:11, 43) She will then be able to live eternally in a world where suffering is no more. (Psalm 37:11, 29; Revelation 21:4) Look to this hope and may it bring you comfort. Know too that our Creator, Jehovah God, sees you and invites you to "throw all your anxiety on him, because he cares for you." (1 Peter 5:7; Psalm 83:18) For more comforting and reassuring scriptures, please visit www.jw.org. Take care dear ones and please accept my sincerest condolences.

“ I am so very sorry for ya'll loss. I can't and won't begin to say I understand how you feel because honestly I don't. Only people who have lost a child can relate. No parents should ever have to go through the pain and heartbreak of losing a child. My prayers are with y'all in this devastating time. I use to be friends with her when I was going to school. So very bright and friendly. She will forever be remembered. May God comfort y'all though this
